DAYTON AND UNION RAILROAD.—We passed over this road on last Friday, and were pleased to learn of the increased patronage of the line. The company have put new passenger coaches on the road, and now, with Mr. Stinson, the people's favorite, for Superintendent, and Mr. Daniels, a very gentlemanly conductor, it must be a favorite road to travel over. We believe this road is extending more favors to shippers and business men than any road we know of.

The place to buy very nice cambrics, ratons, ties and other nice things, is at Thomas & Son's.

THANKS.—Mr. John K. McIntire, of the Grand Knobby & McIntire, will accept the thanks of four little boys—Jay, Willie, Lee, and George Neff—for a box of magnificent cream candy as a Christmas present.

"Oh, yes of little faith!" Those who have not believed what we have said in reference to the bargains to be had of Way & Stake, should go there at once and be convinced. If ye had had faith the size of a piece of chalk, you would go there and buy. You would see as though you had emigrated to a land of milk and honey. Groceries, cutlery, notions and wood-ware, cheap for cash or produce.

ACCIDENT.—The night Express train ran off the track near Martin's warehouse, in this place, on Friday morning last. The switch there had been left open, and, the train being behind time, was running rapidly, intending to pass this station without stopping. Coming to the open switch, the train left the main track, and running on to a side-track, came in contact with a hand-car loaded with railroad iron. The engine and one or two cars were thrown off the track, the engine being slightly damaged by striking the iron bars on the hand-car.

THEY said Jesse to William, "we are prosperous because the people are for us." And Thomas, a younger son of Jesse, arose and with gravity said, "Men and brethren, I perceive that ye reason among yourselves why we sell much coffee, tea, sugar and other good things. I would ye would answer a question. Why do the people trade with us?" Then William, whose surname is Way, answered and said, "Be it known to you, that our cheap goods bringeth us many customers."

NEW PATENT CHURN.—A new churn has been invented which makes all milk into butter, leaving nothing but the water. It will be on exhibition in Winchester during the next week. A. H. Neff, of Indianapolis, has the right of Randolph County. The churn will prove itself whether good or not. If it is what it is represented to be, it must be a great blessing to farmers and dairy men.

SPIRITUALISM.—Spiritualism, practically speaking, may be right; doubtless it is, still, we doubt it. Moving stands, fluting tables, jostling chairs, and turning furniture topsy-turvy generally, may be produced by a supernatural agency; doubtless it is, still we doubt it. Producing objects where there are no objects, playing on a fiddle where there is no fiddle, and making buckets that rakes out of oats taken from the "trow" of a defunct turkey, may be, religiously speaking, all correct; doubtless it is, still we doubt it. But that a log will roll down hill faster than it will up, that darkness vanishes on the approach of light; that a fellow feels more comfortable with money in his pockets than without it; that twisting an ox's tail will make him pull out of the mud; and that routing "spiritualism" from under a table by the simple process of singing, can be performed more easily on a Sunday afternoon than any other time of the week—these are facts, facts admitting of no doubts—facts from which it is useless to take an ep-Peele.

CONCERT.—This evening (Thursday) the members of the Sabbath-school of our town will hold a concert at the M. E. Church, and it is hoped that our citizens will turn out en masse, and thus, by their presence, repay, in a measure, the children for their labor and trouble and expense they have incurred in preparing for the occasion. It would certainly prove a great disappointment and a source of much regret to the children if, after all they have done to render the occasion a season of interest and pleasure to all our citizens should, through willfulness or carelessness, fail to be present. We therefore earnestly ask, on behalf of the little ones, that the house be filled to its utmost capacity, to-night.

YOUNG ladies, who love music, can not expend a half dollar more profitably than by subscribing for the Musical Visitor, published by J. A. Butterfield, Indianapolis. Each number contains a splendid piece of music. The music alone of the Visitor, if purchased separately, would cost at least $2.50 per year. Then the high-toned reading matter is worth the subscription price. In this connection we desire also to call the attention of ladies and gentlemen to the fact that Butterfield keeps the finest stock of pianos, organs, melodeons, &c., in the West. Every family should have some kind of a musical instrument.

Messrs. Neff, Riley & Heaton are also doing an active business at the Martin warehouse, having already cut several hundred head. Prices range from $6 to $8.50 for best heavy dressed hogs.

Saw ye my true love? Yes she was at Hart & Kinnear's. She had three pounds of sugar candy, a pocket full of kisses and a bundle of raisins; ten pounds of white sugar, a pound of tea, and a half bushel of coffee; and she was singing—"caps and susers for sale here, as cheap as stingsy people want, they'er of the purest and smoothest white, so that the boys can see if there is the least bit of dirt on them."

A splendid stock of queensware kept at this house.

WINTER EVENINGS.—There is nothing like music in a family. Gather the little ones around a piano or organ, and play and sing a few pieces before going to bed. It draws the mind away from the corroding cares of earth to that beautiful haven of eternal rest beyond this life. It robs death of its sting, and the grave of its victory, and makes us better men and women. Therefore to do this, go to Willard & Stowell, Indianapolis, and get a fine Chickering piano or organ.

THE ATLANTIC MONTHLY.—The publishers of this magazine have sent us their prospectus for 1897, and its great features for the coming year will be its fine literary articles, by the best writers of the country; such as Longfellow, Emerson, Agassiz, Bryant, Mrs. Stowe, Gill Hamilton, and others.

The Atlantic stands higher with our people than any magazine now published in the United States. The subscription price is $4 per year, club rates, 2 copies for $7; 4 copies, $10; 10 copies $33. The Atlantic and Our Young Folks will be sent to one address for $5 per year.

We recommend all who desire a first-class magazine to subscribe for the Atlantic. Ticknor & Fields publishers, 124 Tremont street, Boston, Mass.

THE annual meeting of the Randolph County Teachers' Institute will commence its session in Winchester, in the County Seminary, on Monday, December 24, at 10 o'clock A. M., and adjourn on Friday, 28th inst. A full attendance of the teachers is requested. J. G. Bacon, Examiner.

Special Correspondence to Randolph Journal. Morristown.

There was quite an interesting Sabbath-school organized here on last Sabbath, although the weather was unfavorable. We hope the parents will manifest the interest they should in so good a cause by coming with their children.

Professor Sherman gave a lecture here on Friday evening, on Phenology. We were sorry not to have been able to attend, but learned, from good authority, that it was highly entertaining.

There have been quite a number of hogs shipped from here during the week. Henry Jacobs and Ben. Evans seems to be dealing largely. We are looking forward to a merry Christmas, since we were blessed with so fine a Santa. There will be no excuse for Santa Clause not coming around in good time this year, for the roads are fine.

There are quite a number of persons in our place sick, but mostly from colds.

The committee appointed to locate the Free Will Baptist College, spoken of in the Journal of last week, met in this place on Thursday last, and, with the committee, (who by-the-by were mostly citizens of Liber and Portland,) came Gen. Shauck and other lights of Jay County, who, with fine speeches, and the great inducements of railroads and turnpikes which Jay county is to be blessed in the future, the College was located at Labor, much to the satisfaction of some of the Baptist brethren.

Notwithstanding the citizens of our town and vicinity offered to donate over $12,000 toward the building, and $13,000 in scholarships, Liber was the chosen site, as the committee decided long before the proposition from Ridgeville was received. How the Baptist expect to sustain a $40,000 College in such an out-of-the-way place as Liber, is more than I can comprehend. The hoop-pole trade of Jay will have to improve vastly. But the people of Ridgeville are going to have a College, and already several thousand dollars have been appropriated for that purpose. The educational interests are at a high tide with us, and we do not intend to let it ebb until Ridgeville can boast of a first-class College. I will endeavor to keep the Journal posted, as the matter progresses. J. R. JONES.

WOMEN OF THE WAR.—American women have won a noble place in the annals of the late war. The unshattering patriotism which could part with a husband or a son, and speed the departure of the support or the hope of the family, to scenes of danger and perhaps death, is not the only proof of how deeply our nation is engrained in the hearts of our women. Not only in Northern homes has the virtue of woman strengthened the hands and emboldened the hearts of the defenders of our Union, but upon Southern battle-fields, in wearisome duties of hospital life, the choruses marched, and even like Molly Pitcher, of Revolutionary memory, upon the very scenes of carnage her presence has been like that of an angel from heaven, encouraging to bravery, and soothing to pain.

A record of the deeds and lives of these noble women is now in press. The book will contain the lives of forty of those brave and benevolent women, who endured and accomplished so much for our soldiers and our country. The sketches are all fresh, no common newspaper stories, but compiled expressly for this work, at great expense and labor, by one of the best writers of the day, Maine to Missouri. The book is from the pen of Frank Moore, whose experience as Author of the "Rebellion Record," "Diary of the American Revolution," "Anecdotes and Incidents of the War," &c., peculiarly fitted him for this work. His writings are attractive, brilliant, and exceedingly popular, but not only is the reading matter in the book superlatively excellent, but the illustrations, mostly portraits of the women of the war from photographs, are specimens of the finest style of steel plate engravings. Three of these illustrations, if sold in a print store, would doubtless realize the price of the work. Some of these portraits are those of Mrs. General Ricketts, Kady Brownell, Miss Willis, and the full page illustrations are most beautiful. The work will be issued as soon as the vast amount of work incident to the publication of such an elegant volume can be completed. We predict for it a high place in popular favor.

I, or one of my agents, will call upon the citizens of Randolph county with the above work and solicit subscribers. A. W. STARR, General Agent for Central Ohio, Randolph and Wayne Counties, Ind.
